MINISTER ASKS DETACHMENT OF U. S. MARINES

Unprotected; South
Is Victorious

PEKING, May 31.—United States Minister MacMurray tonight requested Admiral Williams to send United States marines to north China to defend the Peking legation. The legation guard at Peking is at present a small one.

WASHINGTON, May 31.—With anxiety over the safety of American citizens and diplomatic officials in northern China revived by news of the collapse of the northern Chinese attack south of the Yellow river, the Washington administration is considering removal of the American legation from Peking to a more easily defended point, possibly Tientsin.

Dispatch of American marines from Shanghai and possibly the Philippines to Tientsin also is under consideration and there developed little indication today that the reported plan to send marines under command of Brigadier General Butler at Shanghai to Tientsin to form an allied brigade for defense of that point would be objected there.

Problem Of Bus Removal From Old Route Perplexes Council

The bus of the Key System Transit company that runs to the ferry of the Southern Pacific, is getting to be a nightmare with the members of the council.

Just what will be the solution of the problem, no one can tell. The council members are daily being besieged over the telephone as to why the bus is not put back on the old route which would take it over Washington and Richmond avenues.

The council in a polite manner two weeks ago passed a resolution, addressed to the Transit company, expressing it as their wish that the old route be re-established.

Last night at the meeting of the council the matter hobbled up again, and City Attorney T. M. Carlson made a report that so far the company had ignored the request.

It was suggested at the meeting that possibly when the Key System asks for a renewal of its permit, which must be done every three months, that section might be got at that time, and on the other hand there is the possibility the Key System might take off the bus altogether.

The council would welcome suggestions for the solution of the bus problem.

LOVE EDUCATION

Collegians at Columbia are talking about an article on love that appears in the current number of their undergraduate newspaper.

This article declares that a professor at Barnard (the girls' branch of Columbia) has set three tests whereby a young woman can determine if a young man is in love with her.

These tests, the newspaper says, are: (1) Get drunk with him. (2) Play cards with him. (3) Note what he laughs at.

This may be simply a professorial wisecrack to entertain a group of college girls.

It may have been said in dead earnest.

It may be a deliberate journalistic falsification.

In any of the three cases, it is hardly the sort of stuff that one expects from a university of Columbia's standing.

In spite of the decidedly wet views of the eminent president of that institution it is hardly believable that he will advocate drunkenness on the part of his girl students to determine the extent of the young men's feelings for the girls.

There is only one reason that such a silly test could have been even spoken of in that institution of "higher" learning. That is the deliberate evasion of TRUTH regarding essentials of life as marriage and other human experiences.

Because these profound experiences have been screened by hypocrisy they have become the butt of asinine jokes. This is not only sad. It is profoundly disturbing.

This is a day when the American home is being rocked to its foundations. Divorces are piling up until it seems as though marriages will not be able to keep pace with them.

Our colleges should stem the tide of laxity and perversion. They are increasing evidences that they are doing quite the contrary.

When hooch, cards and laughter are made the basis of talks on love psychology you can imagine what the trend of students' minds must be on every other topic.

It is said that nearly 40,000 German young men are serving in the French foreign legion; which is another way of training an army without getting credit for it.

What it's all about

By PAUL ALLEN

CHARLIE LINDBERGH PROVED that hopping the Atlantic could be done in spite of drawbacks. This boy of the hour was never in danger as long as he could trust himself to his own courage. His only peril lay in the possible shortcomings of others. By aid of his everpresent duck he is alive today and a great hero.

LINDBERGH MIGHT HAVE died before he ever got into the air. His period of greatest peril was at the very start of his flight. Down the runway his plane sunk in the mud up to the hub of its wheels, and he had great difficulty in lifting it off the ground. There were but a few feet to spare when he finally arose, with a death-dealing ditch ahead of him on the ground and a fatal cluster of trees and telephone wires ahead of him in the air. He made it.

AS A LAYMAN I FIND IT HARD to understand why some of our great air fields do not provide runways made of concrete, so that planes loaded to the limit might have every opportunity of getting off without fatal accident. A year ago Capt. Rene Fomek's plane crashed on Long Island in a gully at the end of a runway. Two brave Frenchmen were killed at that time.

OUR GOVERNMENT SHOULD appropriate money to help civilian aviation. Congressional funds should be available for proper fields for safe runways and for other purposes. In case of national peril all this would be valuable. For it takes little to convert a peace plane into a war plane. And the next war is going to be decided by aerial preparation.

LINDBERGH SHOWED THAT danger No. 2 on a long flight over water is sheet ice. Ice is a great enemy of a plane rapidly weighing it down and makes it nose-heavy and unmanageable. Probably the formation of ice dragged the heroic Nungesser and Goll to their death two weeks ago. Some mechanical genius will soon figure out a way of keeping the prows of the planes clear of this menace. That will make air navigation safer and will stimulate transatlantic air travel.

AIRPLANE ENGINES ARE marvels of dependability. They are not yet entirely safe, of course. The airplane that is to be certain of making the ocean hop must be equipped with several motors, so that in case of trouble one engine can be cut out while repairs to it are being made, aside from that, the skillful pilot can navigate through darkness, fog and storm. Inventive genius has made it possible to keep going on a given line without ever looking at anything but a set of dials on an instrument board.

How To EARN MONEY at HOME

By Sara Spence

I received many letters asking if I am sorry I was delayed in answering your nice letter and sorry I had to abbreviate it this way. Write your story and submit it to the magazine dealing in that type of story. There is a great deal in knowing just where to sell it. Love story, detective outdoor, Western and home stories—all these differ widely. Choose your market.

I have had experiences in running a tea room. I wish you would tell me how to open a road-house. "AMBITIOUS."

One of my friends has just opened a road-house. She lives in the country. She put out an artistic sign, "Tea, coffee and sandwiches served here." You see, she had very little money. She arranged a place to park cars and to have them filled with "gas" while the owners ate. She is making a thrilling success. Is this answer any help?

Where can I get envelopes to address and does it pay? "PENMAN."

It pays, but it is hard. You need speed, accuracy and a good penmanship. The publishers are giving them out right now. You will probably have to put up a small deposit as a guarantee you will bring the envelopes back safely.

Your Boys' Complexion

Your Problem, Mother

By LADY BEATRICE GREY

Enlarged pores, blackheads and acne are the underlying cause of many a youthful inferiority complex. Boys, I believe, suffer more from the mortification of these blemishes than girls do, and are infinitely more shy about seeking aids for such ills.

Just the other day I watched a boy as he stood before the mirror in his room. On his face was an unsightly crop of enlarged pores clogged with blackheads and an expression of abject misery. He was scrubbing his face vigorously with a stiff brush and a thick jelly-like mixture. His mother came in and in rather a sarcastic manner gave a little curtain lecture on masculine vanity. Then came his flapper sister.

"Did must have a girl friend," she teased, as she pushed him aside, took his place at the mirror and applied more lipstick to her already over-red lips.

How Sisters Can Help Imagine! The boy glanced at me, grinned shyly, dried his face and hands and left the room, his expression a mixture of rebellion and misery. Food for thought—this.

Whatever you do, girls, don't add to brother's misery by kidding him about a condition that is already causing him much unhappiness. Pass along to him any information that might prove helpful.

To the mothers, let me say that if your boy is suffering from a stubborn case of blackheads and acne because his general health is not up to the mark, the problem is yours even more than his. Certainly yours is the problem. If there is any indication of anemia, faulty circulation, indigestion or constipation, or if the child is too fat or undernourished. At all times, whether well or ill, be sure that he has eight hours sleep, at least eight glasses of water a day, simple, well-prepared, well-balanced food, including plenty of fruit and green vegetables. Beware of Blackheads Blackheads, the underlying cause of acne, are really "masses of fat and debris in the skin which have solidified in the oil glands and clogged them up. Acne results when the blackheads irritate the skin and infection sets in, causing pimples. These sometimes result in tiny scars that disfigure the skin.

Acne usually occurs during adolescence and may be of long or short duration, but rarely ever starts after 20. The condition, of course, is worse if the skin is naturally one of coarse pores and is inclined to be oily.

To the boys let me say the most important step in the simple home treatment of acne or blackheads is a twice-daily thorough cleansing with warm water and soap, preferably one with antiseptic qualities. Pat the face gently until the blood is brought to the surface. This stimulates circulation. Then with fingers covered with soft, sanitary gauze, press out the offending spots, being careful not to bruise the flesh.

The warm face bath should always be followed by a cold water bath. This tends to close the pores. A lump of ice rubbed over the face has the same effect.

Questions concerning beauty building through physical culture will receive the personal attention of Lady Grey, beauty culturist, and should be signed by the writer's full name and address, which will not be used without permission. Address her, care of this newspaper.

Irish Hearts

By MOLLIE MALONE

Copyright 1927, Warner Bros. Pictures, Inc.

"IRISH HEARTS," with May McAvoy, is a Warner Bros. pictureization of this novel.

SYNOPSIS
Emmett Murtough, a youth of Kiltanmaul, a village on the west coast of Ireland, goes to America after winning the pledge of Sheila, daughter of Old Tom Kildare, to join him there. Emmett flirted dangerously with Annie Finnegan, whose father thrashed him as he departs. Old Tom Kildare believes in the youth and after receiving letters from him sells his farm and announces to Sheila that they are to sail for New York.

True, he bid a five pound note so that he could entertain his fellows at the inn during the days that waited before the leave-taking, for Old Tom liked to brag, and for a whole decade there had been precious little the old man could boast about!

The news that Kildare and his daughter were going to America spread over the countryside, and the cottage was overrun during the day and early night with curious but kindly neighbors, who called to wish Sheila good luck. They, too, had had their dreams of the land beyond the horizon in their youth, but age and the responsibilities of family and farm had overshadowed their inspirations. Now they talked of when they wanted to take that step, and even Sheila began to look forward to the adventure with a brighter eye. It would be something to see that wonderful friendly attitude that gave him hope that his misadventure in Kiltanmaul had been forgotten and forgiven.

Emmett splurged himself at the battery and engaged a taxi-cab to drive Old Tom and Sheila to the flat he had rented for them. The drive up Broadway from the Battery to the street in the Fifties between Ninth and Tenth avenues amazed, astounded and silenced Sheila. It was all so big, so tremendous, so overpowering. The thrill auto horns pierced her ears, and the noise of the city, that ceaseless, endless roar comprised of thousands of sounds, sounds that cannot be identified, overwhelmed her. The fear that she had felt that first night when Old Tom had announced that he had sold the Kildare farm clutched at her heart. She felt small and impotent. How could she contend with all these strange and new complexities? She wondered how she ever could nerve herself to take her place among those thousands and thousands of men and women who were striding walks from curb to building. How could she find her way about among these hundreds of streets, all of which began to look alike, with no familiar landmarks to guide her? Sheila Kildare was frightened.

The fat Emmett had selected was three flights up and in the rear. There were three rooms, a living and dining room combined, a bedroom, a kitchen and a bath. There were electric lights and a gas cooking range. The windows looked out on the rear of other tenements and clotheslines which were strung from fire-escape to fire-escape were filled with family laundry. The rooms were furnished, no one article new, yet none was old enough to complain about. Whatever criticism Sheila might have had, however, was forgotten in her delight over the running water and the manipulation of the cooking gas and the electric lights.

Emmett had filled the pantry and the ice box with foodstuffs, and Sheila soon was busily engaged in preparing supper. Emmett remained in the kitchen, eager to help and to show her how to use the range, but frying pans are frying pans the world over, and when Sheila had learned the trick of lighting and turning off the gas, fuel he was dismissed and told to keep himself in readiness for a supper cooked by a real Kiltanmaul cook!

Old Tom was eager to hear of Emmett's adventures, and, with pipes lighted and each warmed by a bit from the bottle which Emmett had provided, they settled down to exchange gossip.

"Sure an' ye've made good fast, Emmett, my boy."

"Well, 'tis not such a grand job I've got the now, but 'tis working for the city I am, an' 'tis jobs are hard to get, I can tell you."

"An' what do ye do?"

"I'm 'at the Department of Streets."

"It must be a fine job," speculated Old Tom.

"It pays me three an' a half dollars the day, an' that's near a pound in English money."

"Almost a pound a day! Hear to that now, Sheila! An' Emmett's earning nearly a pound a day already."

"That is wonderful, Emmett," congratulated Sheila from the door to the kitchen, her face flushed with her cooking.

"Oh, that's nothing to what it will be. There's a grand chance in working for the city. I'll be a contractor some day, an' 'tis easy riches I'll be gathering then."

"An' just what do ye do?" persisted Old Tom.

"Sure, I keep the streets clean! I'm attached to one of the biggest trucks in the department now, an' soon it'll be that I'll be driving me own truck at a driver's wage, an' 'tis plenty of money, I can tell ye, what with only eight hours the day."

"Many's the day I've worked from sun-up to sun-down in Kiltanmaul," commented Old Tom.

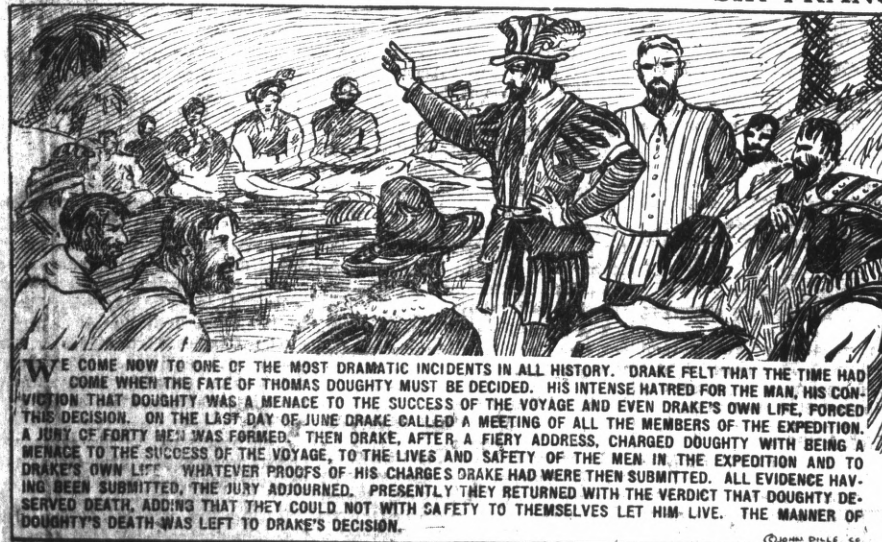

"Tis an eight hour day they have in America. A man gets a chance to be something here."

Old Tom told of the marriage of Annie Finnegan to John Gormley, the blacksmith beyond Knockbothrum and of the births and deaths in Kiltanmaul and all the gossip of the countryside. Emmett grew silent as the old man talked, bringing scenes of the lovely hills and the familiar homes and people into the drab little room in a New York tenement flat. The boasts that were in him died on his tongue and he welcomed the interruption when Sheila called them to supper.

It was a merry meal, with Sheila gay and excited over the voyage and her new home. Old Tom questioned Emmett about the chances for getting into politics, and Emmett painted in gaudy colors New York and the future for them all. And Sheila secretly clasped the good luck locket beneath her waist and vowed that her "singing heart" would guide her to happiness in this great and new world.

By Dr. Elliot Shoring, The Noted Historian

DOUGHTY'S FRIENDS QUESTIONED THE FAIRNESS OF THE VERDICT AND URGED THAT HE BE KEPT A PRISONER UNTIL THE EXPEDITION RETURNED TO ENGLAND WHERE A FORMAL TRIAL COULD BE HELD. SIR FRANCIS WAS DETERMINED UPON DOUGHTY'S DEATH, BUT WANTED THE SUPPORT OF THE JURY. TO MAKE CERTAIN OF THIS HE RE-TAKE HIS LIFE. CLEVERLY HE POINTED OUT THAT IF DOUGHTY WERE TO LIVE THEY MUST RETURN TO ENGLAND AND THEN ONCE WHILE HE WERE PUT TO DEATH THE VOYAGE WOULD CONTINUE AND THE VERY HUMBLEST OF THEM ACQUIRE WEALTH SUFFICIENT TO ENABLE HIM TO RETURN TO ENGLAND A GENTLEMAN. DRAKE THEN PUT DOUGHTY'S FATE THEIR HANDS WITH HIM; THOSE WHO FELT OTHERWISE SHOULD KISS THEIR HANDS DOWN. NEARLY ALL THE HANDS WERE RAISED WITH DRAKE. THE COMMANDER THEN RETURNED TO HIS "JUDGMENT SEAT" AND FORMALLY PRO-NOUNCED DOUGHTY THE "CHILD OF DEATH." DOUGHTY WAS COMMANDED TO "MAKE HYM READY TO DIE." THE ASSEMBLY THEN BROKE UP.

bank of the Yellow river before the onrush of the southern Chinese Nationalists. It is felt by present Chinese that the Peking legation, because of its general inaccessibility, should be moved to Tientsin and that remaining Americans in north China should be concentrated there according to pre-arranged plans.

No official confirmation was obtained in Washington today of the conclusion reported to have been reached by allied commanders at Shanghai and that troops of foreign countries would be assembled at Tientsin or possibly Peking but it has been reiterated that Admiral Williams, commanding American naval forces in Chinese waters and General Butler are empowered to use their own discretion in the movement of troops at their disposal. The suggested augmentation by 2,000 mixed troops of the Peking legation guard was looked upon here as a logical development.

The state department is without authentic official dispatches concerning the military situation along the Yellow river. Some apprehension was felt that General Chang Tso-Lin, commanding the northern armies, might soon find himself hemmed in by the advancing southern troops for the sake of protecting himself might abandon his position and retreat to Manchuria, his own province.

As pictured at the state department, General Chiang Kai-shek, leader of the moderate faction of the southern militarists, who has set up his own government, is racing the liberal portion of the Cantonese army to Peking with the objective of wresting that capital from both the northern and liberal southern armies.

ICE FORMING ON THE WINGS

Is also a peril. Airplane wings are carefully designed in just the proper curves to give them lifting capacity. When these curves are destroyed, as they are by the formation of ice, the plane becomes as difficult to keep in the air as though it were made of flat boards. ## Ruling Made On Income Of Child Screen Actors

(By Universal Service)
WASHINGTON, May 31.—Parents of juvenile stage and screen stars must pay tax on their children's income as well as their own. A. W. Gregg, internal revenue general counsel, ruled today. The ruling followed an inquiry from California, in a case where husband, wife and a minor child earned separate incomes, and the parents had agreed orally to waive their rights to the child's earnings, setting them aside in a trust fund.

Holding this agreement insufficient to segregate the child's earnings from tax purposes, Gregg said: "His earnings are community income to be reported by the husband and wife, in their joint return, or if separate returns are made, filed then in the return of the husband."

CONSTANCE IS CROOK IN FILM AT CALIFORNIA

Constance Talmadge, whose proficiency in outdoor sports is a major factor in her tremendous popularity in Hollywood, now has an opportunity to reveal her prowess as a swimmer, one branch of athletics that has never before been incorporated in her motion picture

The opportunity comes in her latest comedy drama, "Venus of Venice," now at the California

Theatre, for two days. In this opus she literally "swims her way" through the most rollicking story it has been her good fortune to obtain.

With Miss Talmadge cast as

"Carlotta," a madcap snatcher of purses and purses along the Venetian canals, the filming of "Venus of Venice," made it necessary to convert a large portion of the lot, where the picture was produced, into a mammoth Venetian setting. Where only recently were sets of more domestic type, there now appears a network of canals, arched by picturesque bridges and bordered by stately palaces, hotels, cathedrals and other typically Venetian structures.

In Constance's characterization

as "Carlotta," she appears as an impulsive, daring canal thief, known as the "Queen of the "Water Rat," usually at home in the dark, swirling waters of the canals and on land, and by force of habit, "light fingered."

Other features on the same program include "Black Bottom," a riot of laughs and steps; "International News," and Larry Cangelo, at the organ.

Policewomen Need No Firearms Says Leader

(By Universal Service)

ST. LOUIS, May 31.—Women as policewomen do not need guns, says Mrs. Mina C. Van Winkle, vice president of the International Association of Policewomen and director of the Women's Bureau of the Washington police department. And, though she says there is less delinquency today than ever before, the criminals are younger, more than fifty per cent of the inmates of some institutions being under twenty-one years of age.

"By nine years of experience we have proved that a policewoman does not need a gun," she states. "Even in raids, where we encountered the worst kinds of characters, no man has done anything that in any way humiliated us."

"The whole community is organized destructively for youth. More and more we are buying our amusements, and city fathers do not see the iniquitous influence of licensing the wrong kind of pleasure."

Destruction of Arsenal, Guns, No Strategy Of Chinese Military Lords

(By Universal Service)

By KARL H. VON WIEGAND SHANGHAI, May 1.—Destruction of guns or other material of value to the enemy that it may not fall into his hands, has not yet become a part of the strategy of the Chinese warlords.

An arsenal near Shanghai has changed hands five times. Neither time did any one dream of blowing it up. Railway bridges, yes, but not arsenals.

When the northern troops retired from Shanghai recently and gave it over to the southern army without striking a blow in defense, they also left behind two or three aeroplanes.

Captain Ariel L. Vargas, noted American film newsreel photographer, never missing where things are happening, was on the scene. He expressed amazement at leaving the planes. "We will not destroy them for we may get them again," he was told.

That the use of money to "buy" your enemy instead of fighting and killing him is considered quite legitimate, was apparent from what General Yang Yut-tung, chief of staff to Chang Tso Lin, said to me. He remarked that no great military operations were in prospect for some time because the northern marshal wished to wait to see how the quarrel between the two factions in the south developed.

"Also it will give us time to see if we cannot win over some of the southern troops!"

Many of the young officers on both sides look very snappy in their new uniforms bought by themselves with their own money. Knowledge of tactics and military science is necessarily small. Rank and file is miserably equipped. There are all kinds of rifles of different patterns and calibre. Frequently there is no ammunition to fit. Among a part of the Southern there was but one rifle to every three men.

The lack of organization is appalling. Bordin, the Russian who from the shock troops of Marshal Chang Chuang Chang

They number around 4000. For the coarsest fare, a life miserable to a white man under the best conditions, a Chinese passport and about fifteen dollars a month, they are fighting the battles of the Tapan of Shantung. Those who fall into the hands of the enemy expect no mercy and get none.

The Chinese Nationalists hate this white guard of the northern marshals worse than they hate their Chinese opponents. Wherever there is any real fighting to be done on the Tapan front, the white Russians are thrown into the breach. They are the Tapan's "foreign legion."

The French legionnaire who falls wounded into the hands of the Rifians or Arabs in North Africa, is shown less mercy than the white Russian whom his comrades are forced to leave on the battlefield in China.

Regular paydays being very scarce on either side in the Chinese struggle, pillage and loot is pretty much the order of the day. In fact sometimes the only means of subsistence. And what happens to the comely women, especially the younger ones, would read like the description of battles in the Bible. There is where tragedy treads hard on the heel of comic opera phases in the strife in China.

It would be absurd to state that there have been few casualties in China in the past year, but that they have not been heavy is averred on all sides among the foreign military. The principles on which military operations are based and the methods used, together with the fact that the utterly untrained undisciplined raw masses easily get into a panic and make a dash for safety, does not tend toward severe fighting.

Monkeys Held Cause Of Fire In Home

NEPTUNE CITY, N. J., May 31.

Two mischievous monkeys are blamed for causing a fire that destroyed the home of Jack Kendrick, agent of the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals, here today, and endangering the life of Kendrick's six-month-old baby girl.

The monkeys, which the society had taken from a cruel trainer, were temporarily quartered in Kendrick's home. While the Kendrick were away for a short time, with the baby asleep upstairs, the simians escaped from their pens and began playing with matches in the kitchen.

A neighbor, discovering the fire, rescued the baby. While trying to save some of the animals, a fireman was scratched by one of the monkeys and bitten by an ant-eater.

Scotchmen are reported to be exceptionally stingy, but most recent jokes are told at their expense. IRVING R. HOFFMAN.

FILM ACTOR IS GIVEN TEN YEAR TERM BY COURT

Motion For New Trial Is Denied; Attorneys To Continue Fight

(By Universal Service)

LOS ANGELES, May 1. Paul Kelly, juvenile film actor, convicted of manslaughter for the death of Ray Raymond, musical-comedy star, following a first fight over the affections of Dorothy Mackaye, well known stage actress and Raymond's wife, was today sentenced to serve one to ten years in San Quentin by Superior Judge Charles Burnell. The court decided a motion for a new trial and Defense Attorney W. L. Gilbert gave notice of appeal.

To Continue Fight

"We will continue to fight," was Kelly's only comment as he was returned to his cell in the county jail.

Attorney Gilbert sought a new trial for the film actor on the grounds that the court committed a technical error by permitting in the evidence a telegram Raymond sent from Fresno, Calif., to Miss Mackaye. Gilbert also based objections to the court's instructions to the jury.

New Trial Denied

"Well, if these are your only objections," Judge Burnell said, "we believe the defendant Kelly was given a very fair trial. Your motion for a new trial is denied."

Before pronouncing sentence Judge Burnell summarized the case briefly. "The trial testimony showed there had been intimate relations between Kelly and Raymond's wife," he said. "On numerous occasions they breakfasted together in bed in Kelly's rooms, served by Kelly's Japanese servant."

The court also pointed out the difference in size and weight between Kelly and Raymond and commented on the fact that Raymond, the much smaller man, had pleaded for mercy while being beaten by Kelly in the Raymond home, but the latter had shown no mercy.

Kelly Nervous

When Kelly, nattily dressed, was brought into the courtroom, he revealed mental and nervous strain. Doris Kelly, his sister, and Max Wagner, his chum and partner in the famous gun parties in Kelly's room at which Dorothy Mackaye was always a guest, were his only friends in attendance.

Kelly, his hands clenched tightly behind his back, stared straight before him as Judge Burnell pronounced sentence. Several of the jurors who convicted him were among the spectators who filled the courtroom.

Immediately upon his return to his cell Kelly discarded his natty clothing and again resumed the jail uniform of blue denim.

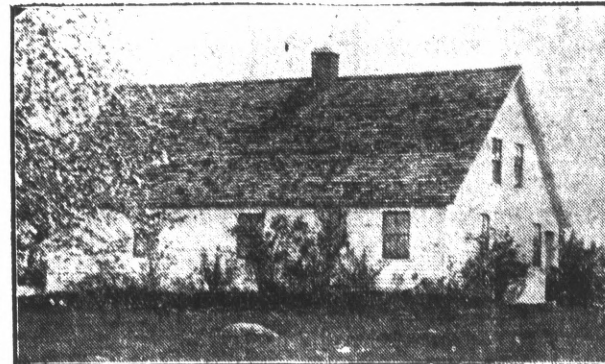

Miss Mackaye and Dr. W. J. Sullivan, Hollywood physician, accused in an indictment of attempting to "cover up" the cause of Raymond's death, will go to trial on June 16.

Miss Mackaye, since testifying at the trial of Kelly, has been in seclusion in her room in a downtown hotel.

W. L. "Doc" Seawright, city recreation director, and family have returned from several days' outing near Santa Cruz.

Mr. and Mrs. R. J. Gasser and daughter, Sadie, and Miss May Miner, 1231 Chanslor avenue, are back from a week-end spent at Calistoga.

Canada's Break With Soviet Is Financial Loss

(By Universal Service)

VANCOUVER, B. C., May 31.—Evidence continues to accumulate that the decision of the Dominion government to follow the lead of London in breaking off all relations with Russia will mean heavy loss to Canada in trade.

In addition to the cancellation of a $20,000 order for British Columbia horses for the Soviet army, a Brantford, Ont., firm had just secured a $1,000,000 contract for the supply of hilder twine. It has received word that the deal

150,000 Cross Span; 60,000 Use Ferry In Holiday Rush

San Francisco extended just south of Rodeo through the town of Pinole. The Richmond San Rafael Ferry company did a record breaking business through the holiday period. In the four days 14,000 automobiles were transported and nearly 60,000 persons.

With the new wharf on the Marin county side completed and in use, nearly a mile was cut off of the transbay trip, and the company by using its three boats was able to maintain a fifteen minute service, which was greatly appreciated by the traveling public.

Saturday morning the boats started at 6 a. m. and on Sunday at 5 a. m. and this service was continued until 11 o'clock Monday night, when all of the traffic was cleared up.

Southern Pacific Ferry The new time table that was put in effect by the Southern Pacific Company had its effect, for the traveling public took advantage of it over the holidays. During this time 1584 machines were carried. On the first day there were 437 cars, on the second 529 and on the third day 618.

Babe Ruth Hits Two More Homers

PHILADELPHIA, May 31.—Babe Ruth clouted two home runs in as many games between the Yankees and Athletics here today, and bettered his 1921 record for this stage of the Yankee schedule. The two homers today brought Ruth's total for this season to 16. In 1921, when Ruth startled the baseball world by his home run record, he did not make his sixteenth circuit drive until June 3, during the Yankee's forty-third game. He obtained his sixteenth in the Yankee's forty-second game of the season today. Ruth's first homer today came in the first inning of the first game of a double-header program. His second was in the fifth inning of the second game.

DERELICT NINE PLANS WRECK OF HARDWARES

Members of the Douglall Hardware are going through stiff workouts this week in preparation for their "little world series" tilt with the Derelicts next Sunday morning at 10 o'clock at the First street ball park. Manager Archie Kemble is determined to keep the Douglall escutcheon unsullied by the stigma of a defeat at the hands of the Derelicts, who are made up chiefly of newspaper men of the city.

Murray Hannon, demon Derelict leader, is fast lining up an aggregation of stars that he firmly believes will be able to take the measure of the youngsters. Most of the Derelicts have long since retired from the diamond and feel that they have but one good game in their respective systems for this season, hence they are not wasting their energy in last minute practices that could do little more than stiffen up their muscles and make them ill fit for the big struggle Sunday morning.

The Derelicts have played but one game since they were organized two years ago, but that contest resulted in a smashing victory over the Carmen's second team. Since that time the Derelicts have been content to rest upon their laurels, but with the call of spring and all that sort of thing they came out of their two year's hibernation last week with a sweeping challenge to the Douglalls and the baseball world at large.

When Hannon's ball club was organized two years ago it had plenty of potential stars on its roster but was shy a suitable name. After such original names as "Giants," "All Stars," and such had been suggested and voted down, it was decided to leave the choice of a monicker up to our Noah Webster.

A dictionary was thereupon opened, with the result that the name "Derelict" stood forth on the page like a dirty deuce in a new deck. "A derelict," read Hannon, "is something forsaken or cast away. Not so good," the demon manager commented, and then went on: "Also a menace to navigation. That's us," exulted Hannon, "we will now proceed to be a menace to the navigation of our opponents."

And the remnants of the Carmen's second team can give ample testimony as to how their own navigation was impeded in their famous tilt with the Derelicts, who are now just as confident that they will wreck the good ship Douglall next Sunday.

TRUSTEES PASS ON PAVING IN EL CERRITO

Resolution of intention for the improvement of the streets in the Berkeley Country Club Terrace tract was passed last night by the board of trustees of El Cerrito and the date of protest set for June 18th.

The proposed improvement includes the paving of practically all of the streets in the tract with asphalt macadam and the main arteries with concrete at a cost of between $500,000 and $600,000.

S. R. Stevens, 395 Richmond street, was granted permission by the board to inaugurate a patrol service in the city and Stevens appointed a deputy marshal.

According to a communication from the W. J. Mertimer Realty Co., of Berkeley, the University of California will purchase between 7 and 10 acres of the Galpin property near the county line for a poultry farm if the trustees will guarantee that they will not be legislated against.

Trustees George Conlon and Phil A. Lee were appointed to investigate the report next Monday night as to the attitude of the residents toward the poultry farm's locating in that territory. On the recommendation of trustee Phil A. Lee, city attorney William Pierce, was introduced to prepare an ordinance regulating the weight of loads carried by vehicles and their width in the city limit.

Joseph Rosal was granted a permit to conduct a dance on Wednesday and Saturday nights from 8:30 p. m. to 1 a. m. at the El Cerrito Athletic Club.

Engineer Ross L. Caffee reported that the Hutchinson Co. will start work on the improvement of San Pablo avenue from Manilla street to the county line this week.

Two hundred dollars was appropriated by the trustees for the repairing of streets in the Tapscott tract providing the realty company would spend four hundred dollar or more.

Francis Judkins, former employee of the Record-Herald, left Richmond yesterday on a Standard Oil tanker, Amerigo Sulpizio, of 125 Nineteenth street, taken his place in the print shop.

Councilman John I. and Mrs. Collins and Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Winchell enjoyed a several days outing at Felton in the Santa Cruz mountains.

Coolidge Will Receive Flyer In Washington

the president amounts to a command which can not well be disregarded, was the general opinion here.

Cal to Receive Ace

Reasons for the sudden change were said to have been prompted by the discovery that it would be impossible for Lindbergh to sail on the destroyer Brock and reach here before June 12 when the president has definitely decided to leave for the west. Friends of the president suggested to him that it would cause criticism should he be absent from Washington to receive the boy who had been received as a hero by the president of France and the king of Great Britain and Belgium.

It was then decided to make every effort to have him reach Washington by June 11. This could only be done by placing at his disposal the cruiser Memphis, which is now at Rotterdam and preparing to sail for America. Pending advice from Lindbergh she will be sent to either a French or a British port and take him on board.

Direct Line to U. S.

The Memphis will make a direct line for Hampton Roads, not touching at New York. She will steam up Chesapeake bay and the Potomac river, past Mount Vernon, and dock at the Washington navy yard. Should the ship arrive Saturday, June 11, the formal reception of the president will be held then. If not it will be held on Monday, June 13, just prior to the departure of the president. Lindbergh will be a house guest of the chief executive for the time he is in Washington.

The Memphis, it is believed, will reach Washington in ample time as she can steam the distance in anything from five to seven days, as may be desired. She is one of the new modern light cruisers of 7,500 tons. She can cruise at a speed of anywhere from 16 to 30 knots.

Washington Surprised

Washington was totally unprepared for the change in the plans of having Lindbergh land here first instead of in New York and officials were busy late into the night arranging the details of his reception. It will be as colorful as this large center of the army navy and marine corps can make it. Most probably Pennsylvania avenue will be lined with soldiers, sailors and marines from nearby posts. But on account of the shallow channel, warships will not be able to escort him up the river.

The change in the president's plans was announced by a special committee of his cabinet which he named at the meeting this morning to decide on the program for official recognition. This was to work out the details of the official reception to be accorded him. However, the measure of official recognition was scarcely touched upon and Secretary of the Navy Wilbur was asked about the most speedy way to bring Lindbergh home in the event he will accept the invitation.

The committee issued this statement: "The committee appointed by the president, consisting of the Secretary of War, the Secretary of the Navy, the Postmaster General, and the Secretary of Commerce, have cabled an invitation to Captain Lindbergh to sail on the cruiser Memphis direct to Washington, where he will be officially received by the president. His departure is to be so timed as to permit him to arrive in Washington on June 11th or by the morning of June 13th at the latest. All arrangements for later receptions are left to Captain Lindbergh himself."

Washington began work apace to make the welcome here a momentous one. One of the first acts was to send a telegram to Mrs. Lindbergh, the flyer's mother, and invite her here to greet her son when he steps ashore.

But even these hastily laid plans may go awry unless Lindbergh decides to accept the invitation. He may accept the invitation to be here before the president leaves for his vacation, but may decide to take the American steamship George Washington. This would enable him to land in New York and after a reception there come to Washington by special train.

Official Honors Planned

While the statement of the committee indicates that Lindbergh is to be free to do as he wishes after the Washington reception, the government will show him every official honor should he wish to go from here to New York. It was learned in fact, every facility will be placed at the disposal of the New York city officials. Troops will be ordered out to act as guards of honor and high officials will be there from Washington.

Bids For Work On Potrero To Be Opened In 2 Weeks' Time

(Continued from Page 1.) improvement would place an excessive burden on the company. "None of the company lines in Richmond are paying," said Goldsmith, "and R. Sachse, an expert engineer has been employed to make a survey of your city from a transportation standpoint. This will be ready in about two weeks, and at that time we will be pleased to submit it to you. We would ask that no action be taken on this matter until that time."

Councilman Black stated this was the third or fourth time that the improvement of Potrero avenue has been before the council. "Already it has cost the city about $4,000, for delays, and it is useless to continue," he said. "Just when the council thinks it is the opportune time to go ahead with the work, there are protests filed, and the peculiar part of them is, that the names on the protests are in a great many instances are the same as on the petitions asking for the work."

Charles Bradshaw, who resides in that district told the council he owned property that cost over $4,000 and he could not sell it for $3,000, simply because we have no good streets. "Our section," said Bradshaw, "is not building, while other sections are going ahead. When we started in to get this work done we thought we would have the support of the Chamber of Commerce, but instead we find that we have a knock, and we have also got a knock from the real estate people. We want the work to proceed."

Then came to statement of Hartnett, by the vote of the council to give the people of that section what they desire.

MEMORIAL DAY OBSERVED HERE

Richmond Patriotic organizations and civic and fraternal groups united in paying tribute to the memory of the hero dead at services held Sunday and Monday. Water services were held Sunday afternoon from the Richmond-San Rafael ferry, with the Grand Army of the Republic, the United Spanish War Veterans, the Veterans of Foreign Wars, the American Legion, their auxiliaries, the Daughters of the American Revolution and the War Mothers all participating.

The prayer was led by Aubrey Wilson, and Mrs. James Stuart rendered a vocal selection. A large floral boat was cast upon the waters, followed by floral pieces from each organization. A salute was fired by the Spanish War Veterans firing squad.

With George Herick and Peyton Gartner, the sole survivors of the Richmond G. A. R. Camp, leading the way, a big parade was held Monday, followed by services at Sunset View cemetery. Services at the cemetery included invocation by Rev. Frank Woten, vocal selections by Madame Dorothy Raegen Talbot, Gettysburg Address by W. H. Wharff of the Grand Army and an address by General David P. Barrows.
